

An Experiential Learning Program by Eagles Flight Asia

One of the most important ways leaders can bring out the best in their team members is by learning how to be an effective coach. Leaders who understand the value of coaching take the time to understand their employees and to offer genuine, individualized support and feedback, leading to improved results and engagement.

In Eagles Flight's virtual experience, Ride the Wind, participants are tasked with building the world's best amusement park. While engaged in this experiential learning sessions participants put into practice a coaching framework that lays out the steps to communicate in a way that encourages people to remain open to coaching and willing to act based on feedback.

The Outcome:

While we're big on fun, we also know that your event needs to make a real impact. Here are just a few of the things that attendees will walk away confidently able to do:

- Deliver feedback in a way that optimizes impact by applying a coaching framework
- Understand the importance of effective teamwork and team dynamics
- Maximize the outcome without losing sight of the "non negotiables"
- Deliver on all accountabilities
